

2017-2018 Ram Leadership Team Application

Thank you for considering applying for a position on the 2017-2018 Ram Leadership Team (RLT). Please take the time to read the team description, important information and dates carefully. The application process involves submitting this application and an interview. Below you will find important information regarding Ram Leadership Team as well as materials and dates required for applying.

What is the Ram Leadership Team?

The Ram Leadership Team (RLT) is a program for first and second year students that provides opportunities for participants to become better leaders, more engaged students, and to connect with the CSU community. Through service, leadership training, and fun social programming, members of the RLT program can develop themselves and their ideas of what it means to be a CSU Ram.

Meetings are held once a week, throughout the academic year, with various topics aiming to develop a range of leadership and service skills. These skills can be applied to exciting volunteer projects and other involvement opportunities. Strong relationships will be created among team members, members of ASCSU, and leaders in the CSU community. If you have ram pride and a passion for making a difference, Ram Leadership Team is for you!

Ram Leadership Team Mission

Our mission is to build a team of individuals who are committed to personal growth, involvement, leadership education, service, and creating strong relationships within Colorado State University's community.
